

EXPECT U. S. CONTROL OF STEEL BUSINESS

No 'Blazing Churn' Expected in Annual Meteor Shower Scheduled Friday Night

Youngstown Area Looks for Tighter Federal Grip on Practices.

By International News Service
YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 2.—Alleged unfair trade practices of the steel industry are expected to be stopped when the federal government gets a firmer grip on trade through the recovery program.

One of the so-called unfair practices which undoubtedly will be brought to an end is the destruction of markets for superior products by the sale of inferior goods at a slightly lower price.

President Roosevelt and his advisers, it is understood here, will also abolish the practice of underselling after prices have been established throughout the industry. In the past, it is charged here, some fabricators followed the practice of purchasing imperfect semi-finished steel which otherwise would have been scrapped and sold at a lower price.

Paying a price slightly higher than current scrap prices, they would turn the inferior steel into finished products, selling them for less than that asked for the A-1 goods.

This, it was said, destroyed markets for superior steel products for manufacturers who could not compete with the low prices of their rivals. Plant officials believe this method is certain to be outlawed.

"Cut rate" steel companies have been in existence as well as in other business lines, according to executives. A small number of producers in the past have contacted buyers over the telephone and made "special" lower prices. Executives hope the government will also halt this practice.

NEW COMBINATION

Ohio Farmer Finds Bull and Horse Make Good Team.

By The Associated Press
CHARDON, O., Aug. 2.—Archibald Barnes, who farms 34 acres at Muntaburg, south of here, has an unbeatable farm combination, he believes—a bull and a horse combining in a team to pull his plow and wagon.

"And," says Barnes, "they get along fine together. I wouldn't want a better team to work. When it comes to a steady pull, the bull is better than the horse."

Barnes has done all his farm work this spring and summer with the team, planting 22 acres of corn, mowing 12 acres and doing other farm tasks. The bull also has worked singly on the weeder and has hauled grain.

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Millions will look at the annual shower of meteors the night of August 11, but only a few persons a century have seen the "blazing churn" or the "blacksmith's bellows"—a close-up of a meteor about to strike the earth.

The August meteors are the Perseids, which will appear in the northeast sky after midnight of Friday, August 11. No Perseid has ever been recorded as striking the earth. They burn up at high altitudes, with beautiful flashes of light.

Like a "Blazing Churn"
Descriptions of some of the rare close-up views of meteors large enough to penetrate to earth's surface have been gathered by H. H. Nininger of the Colorado Museum of Natural History. One is from the letters of M. B. Harrison written in 1846 in Little Piney, near Pine Bluff, Ark.

"On going out from dinner," he wrote, "I met a man in my dog yard who was much alarmed at the sound of a distant cannon, as he supposed, proceeding from a northwesterly direction. On the following day I visited a place 20 miles east of this, where the people spoke not only of hearing the same noise, but of seeing a body like a blazing churn pass through the heavens in a southwesterly direction."

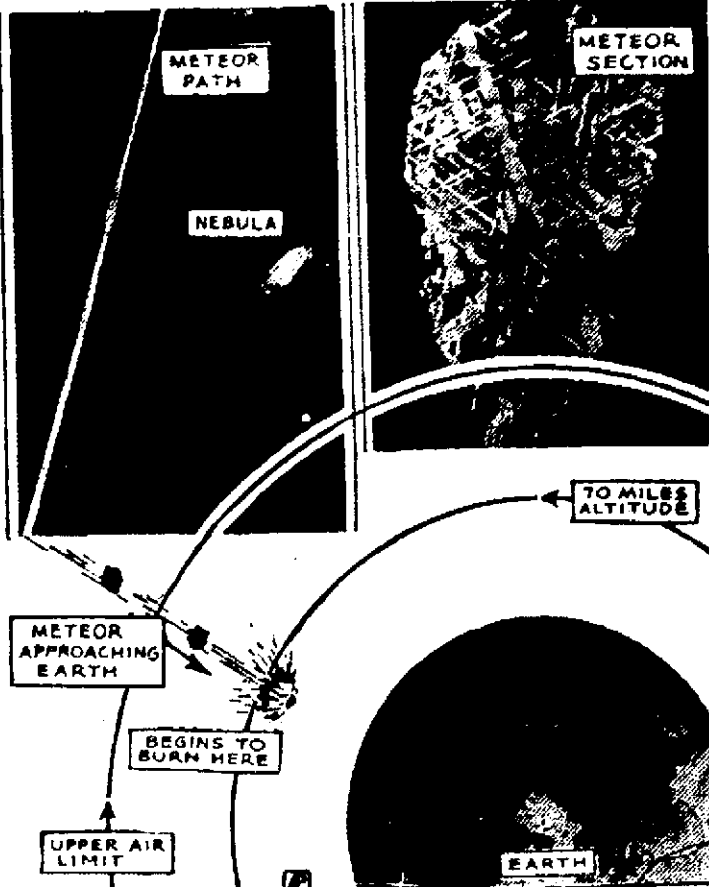

Descriptions vary. The meteor proved to be a stone weighing about 50 pounds. Its surface bore a dark crust the thickness of wrapping paper, evidently the portion which had been heated to flaming temperature.

Other observers of this same meteor were quoted as saying that their "attention was suddenly arrested by a rushing sound, proceeding from a dark-colored body, partially enveloped in smoke, which was moving horizontally through the air, apparently only 400 feet above the tops of the trees."

"They compared its size and shape to those of a blacksmith's bellows, moving with the large and foremost. A bright light or blaze was observed to hover around the blowpipe, extremely of the mass, which vibrated up and down through the space of a few inches. A streak of bright light 100 yards in length followed the blaze."

Only Surface Burns
Only the surface of meteors burns in the friction of the atmosphere. When small like the Perseids meteors are completely consumed while in the air. But the big ones may strike the earth with their centers scarcely heated by the surface incandescence. They are of every conceivable shape and size, up to many tons.

Usually these big meteors are seen only as balls of fire, because their brilliance obliterates details of shape. Mr. Nininger found one Astronomers training their telescopes on the skies for the Perseid meteor showers, August 11, expect none to hit the earth as some meteors have done—described by observers as a "blazing churn." A meteor path and nebula, and a section of meteor acid-etched to show its crystal structure appear above. Meteors do not begin to burn until coming within 70 miles of the earth, due to absence of sufficient air to produce friction.

description stating that the "head of the meteor at the forward part of it was a bright, deep red, with flashes of yellow-green, and other prismatic colors." The fragments from a daylight meteor which exploded in the air were described by one observer as resembling "flying blackbirds."

TWO ARE FINED ON CONDUCT CHARGES

George McGuire, 23, of 785 East Center street, and Don Vance, 19, of the Prospect pike, were fined $10 and costs yesterday by Municipal Judge William R. Martin on charges resulting from their arrest early Sunday morning on West Center street.

McGuire was charged with intoxication and disorderly conduct. He pleaded not guilty and then changed his plea to guilty yesterday afternoon. Vance, charged with disorderly conduct, pleaded guilty. Police said the two were creating a disturbance.

here are the tires that have EVERYTHING

WITH cotton and rubber and tire prices all on the way up, it's more important than ever to get the most for your money—the biggest value—when you buy.

That means the most safety in the tread—the best protection from blowouts—and the biggest mileage.

And that means GOODYEAR TIRES! Read the facts and judge for yourself.

More SAFETY in the tread

Every tire claims safety. But Goodyear builds it right in the tire—by putting traction in the center of the tread where the tire contacts the road.

Result: in careful, accurate, scientific tests with actual cars and actual tires on wet concrete, Goodyear Tires proved they can stop quicker than any other tire.

Even the next best tire skidded 10% farther—and other tires skidded up to 77% farther than the world's safest tire.

Safety from Blowouts in Every Ply

Blowouts result from plies breaking down. And every ply in a Goodyear Tire stands the gaff—every ply in every Goodyear Tire is built with patented Supertwist cord, and every ply runs from bead to bead. Supertwist prevents blowouts, because this ply material will stretch and come back long after ordinary cords break down under the heat and strain of driving. Ask any Goodyear dealer to show you proof, right before your eyes.

Mileage greater than ever!

One of the toughest tests of tires in actual service is found on the great bus fleets of the country. These fleets roll out millions of tire miles per year. And bus fleet records show that Goodyear Tires now average mileages which represent an increase of 97% in the past five years! That shows how Goodyear is stepping up quality—stepping up value—stepping up mileage regardless of price.

Don't miss these prices!

Goodyear Tires today offer greater values than you may ever see again—because prices are going up. Look at cotton—up 100%. Look at rubber—up 100%. Then look at the prices at which you can buy Goodyear Tires today—and you'll agree, it's wise to buy Goodyears—and buy them quick.

"I wanted to be lovely like Carole Lombard"

LUX Toilet Soap

"I can remember the time when I actually cried, I was so discouraged about my complexion! I wanted to be lovely—every girl does, I guess, and I knew my unattractive skin was to blame for the many lonely evenings I spent."

"Then I met a scientist. 'I'll tell you,' he said, 'what I told Carole Lombard. Skin grows old-looking through the gradual loss of certain precious elements. Miss Lombard's gentle, readily soluble beauty soap checks the loss of these elements. Because, as I told her in Hollywood...'"

"LUX TOILET SOAP, MISS LOMBARD, ACTUALLY CONTAINS PRECIOUS ELEMENTS NATURE PUTS IN SKIN ITSELF TO KEEP IT LOVELY—YOUNG-LOOKING."

"I began right away to use Lux Toilet Soap, as Carole Lombard does. My skin began to improve..."

"I was so delighted! My skin grew clearer and lovelier every day, just as I had hoped it would. And every day I grew happier. Men certainly are attracted by lovely skin. No more lonely evenings now!"

9 out of 10 screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap and have for years, to keep their complexions lovely. Why don't you try it, too?

FIND MAN DEAD AT HOME NEAR KENTON

Verdict of Accidental Death Given in Demise of H. A. Benshoff.

Special to The Star
KENTON, Aug. 8.—Lack of evidence to substantiate suicide rumors led to a verdict of accidental death in the case of Harry Allen Benshoff, 29, well known in Kenton and vicinity who was found dead last night at his farm home five miles southwest of here. Coroner Floyd M. Elliott said this morning.

Coroner Elliott said that Benshoff had mentioned self destruction to his parents yesterday morning after receiving a letter from a girl with whom he had quarreled Sunday night. The letter could not be found today, and the family denied there was a girl in the case.

Benshoff's body was found last night at 7, in a lane at the rear of the home, a wound through the heart, the feet entangled in wire and the gun nearby. David Benshoff, father of the young man, found the body when he started to look for him after he failed to return from his truck patch at the far end of the farm. It was not unusual for him to take his gun with him for groundhog shooting the family told authorities.

Besides the parents three brothers and three sisters survive. They are Guy, Mary and Ellen of Fremont, O. Nellie of Fremont, Ralph who is serving in the U. S. army and Robert at home.

The funeral will be conducted Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Belle Center M. E. church. Burial will be made in Fairview cemetery.

PRESTON PARDON SEEN AS PRECEDENT

Circumstances Recalled in Arrest of Paul Maxin, Ohio Reformatory Fugitive.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 8.—Governor White will not have to look far for a precedent if he decides to pardon Paul Maxin, arrested in Chicago for officials of the Mansfield reformatory from which he escaped six years ago.

Two years ago the governor set somewhat of a precedent when he pardoned Frank Preston, convicted of robbery and sentenced to serve 1 to 15 years in the reformatory. Preston escaped in September, 1918, soon after he entered the institution.

The next time he turned up was in St. Louis, Mo., 13 years later. He had just become the owner of a restaurant. Then he was discovered and returned to Ohio to serve the remainder of his sentence, but when he arrived at the prison he was ordered to proceed to the state capitol.

When Preston reached the governor's office, the chief executive handed him a paper bearing his signature and the official seal of the state which liberated him from serving any further time on his old sentence.

In pardoning Preston, the governor said he did not believe that a young man, even though he had run away from prison, should be called back and forced to endure the hardships of prison for something he had done in his youth, inasmuch as he was making good.

Maxin, who under the name of J. Paul Faraday became advertising manager of a nationally known paint company, probably will be returned to Mansfield today.

While he had not been advised as to the circumstances surrounding Maxin's case, the governor said he would gladly listen to the story if some one cared to bring it before him officially.

Maxin's employers have said they would try to get him a pardon.

NRA PLAN INDORSED AT 40 ET 8 MEETING

Marion Organization Pledges Support To President's Recovery Act.

Members of the 40 et 8 indorsed and pledged their support to the NRA movement last night in the armory.

Final arrangements were made to send the Rube band to Lima to take part in the state convention activities Saturday and Sunday and delegates to the convention were given their final instructions.

Delegates are D. J. MacDonald, Dr. F. L. Thomas, C. C. Caldwell of Marion and T. A. Campbell of Mt. Gilead. Alternates are E. L. Hill, A. S. Brooks, Alfred Donithen and T. E. Kinnear.

Oscar Gast gave a report on the Boy Scout troop made up of boys from the Children's home and sponsored by the 40 et 8. The third degree was conferred on a class of candidates. The next meeting will be Sept. 11 instead of Sept. 4 on account of Labor Day.

William T. Dulin has been appointed administrator de bonis non of the estate of Rebecca A. Dulin.

AMATEUR BASEBALL TOURNAMENT IS PLANNED

Teams from Marion and Nearby Counties Urged To Enter.

Amateur baseball teams in Marion and nearby counties were urged today to enter a statewide tournament for the state amateur championship. Entries must be in by Aug. 23, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Columbus quoting Charles E. Seddon, Columbus recreation director, who is in charge of the tourney.

Competition is to be conducted by districts, with final games to be played in or near Columbus. Marion county is in a district with Morrow, Union, Delaware, Richmond, Knox, Muskingum, Perry, Fairfield, Franklin, Madison and Fayette counties with Seddon as district commissioner. Another of the eight districts consists of Hardin, Wyandot, Paulding, Putnam, Hancock, Van Wert, Allen, Auglaize, Mercer, Shelby and Logan counties with H. G. Danforth of Lima as commissioner.

Any genuine amateur team in the state is eligible the announcement said. District play will start Sept. 2, with state finals to be held at or near Columbus, Sept. 23-24, weather permitting.

The tournament, it was said, is being given the aid of the Municipal Baseball league and the National Baseball federation, to revive interest in the national game.

Entries may be limited to 16 teams in each of eight districts, though provision has been made for district commissioners to set up sub-districts if the number of entries justifies.

IN co-operation with the merchants of Marion and surrounding territory, as determined at the general meeting held in the Star Auditorium last week—our store is now operating on the above schedule.

We are now endeavoring to conduct our business strictly within the spirit of the N. R. A., and in full conformity with President Roosevelt's requests.

PRIOR to the establishment of the N. R. A. Code it was the custom of some of Marion's stores to close, while some remained open Wednesday afternoons.

In view of which fact it was mutually agreed that each merchant should be at liberty to determine—in his own individual case—whether his store is to close or remain open during the remaining Wednesday afternoons, of the present month.

White Rewards Canton Woman for Chicago Convention Support

By International News Service
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 8.—When Governor George White was seeking the presidential nomination at the Chicago Democratic convention in 1932, an attractive little woman from Canton, O., with an excellent command of complimentary language, ascended to the platform to second his nomination.

In ringing terms she told the assembled delegates why the governor of Ohio was the logical choice for the party's standard-bearer.

The governor did not forget that loyalty. Today Mrs. Josephine Mc-Gowan of Canton, state central committeewoman and delegate to the 1932 convention, is installed at the state industrial commission as head of the new minimum wage division.

Governor White, however, does not need to blush at the political nature of the appointment, according to minimum wage experts here, for Mrs. McGowan knows her job.

Mrs. McGowan has been identified with anti-sweat shop labor movement for several years from it is being administered by a woman.

Mrs. McGowan is an admirer of the part played in public life by Frances Perkins, secretary of labor.
The minimum wage chief is the wife of Frank McGowan, a member of the state board of real estate examiners.

TWO MARION MEN TO GET PAROLES

Sixty inmates of the Ohio State reformatory at Mansfield, including two from Marion, were granted paroles today by the state board of paroles, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Columbus.

Those from Marion, George Beachum and Robert Gore, are serving sentences for breaking and entering. Beachum is to be released Oct. 1 and Gore on Sept. 27.

FAMILY REUNIONS

As in the past The Star is anxious to cover the family reunions held in Marion and Burk of Findlay, vice president; Morris Burk of Forest, secretary-treasurer. The next reunion will be held at Forest furnished music. Next year the family will meet at Riverside park in Findlay on the first Sunday in August.

WICKETT
Mrs. R. A. Wickett of Marion who celebrated her seventy-seventh birthday anniversary at the annual reunion held Sunday at McKim's park was re-elected president of the family. Mrs. L. M. Kiner of Columbus was elected first vice president; H. E. Huchart of Marion, second vice president; and Miss Mildred Holllandhead of Marion, secretary-treasurer. The next reunion will be held in Marion the first Sunday in August, 1934.

JONES
About seventy persons attended the eleventh annual reunion of the Jones family Sunday at the home of John Moore in Upper Sandusky.
Officers elected are: Alf Jones,

APPEAL HOLDS OFF SHIVELY SENTENCE

Imprisonment in Bribery Case Delayed Pending Move for New Trial.

By The Associated Press
CAMBRIDGE, O., Aug. 9.—E. D.
Shively, Cambridge real estate dealer today faced a sentence of from one to ten years in Ohio penitentiary for allegedly offering a $1,000
bribe to Rev. Forest W. Hall, Cherryman county representative, to forget his bill to reduce interest rates on chattel loans and mortgages.

Execution of the sentence, proposed yesterday, was deferred 30 days pending an appeal for new trial.

Mr. Hall told the house the offer was made last January, but he made no mention of it until several weeks later. No action was taken until a special legislative investigating committee ordered the filing of an affidavit.

Shively, at his trial, denied any intention to bribe the minister-legislator. He asserted he offered to wager Mr. Hall his bill would not go far.

The bill failed of passage.

GALION COMPANY REGISTERS STOCK

Crackpots.

Obviously, the New York stock exchange is no place for a practical joker to do a stunt that causes inconvenience. The exchange takes itself very seriously and the country takes what happens in the exchange and to the exchange very seriously—much more seriously than it should, according to some learned economists.

Despite a vast deal of furore over what happened on the first four floors of the exchange last week and notwithstanding a general tendency to express indignation, it is difficult to see how a bit of fear gas released in a ventilating system can be called anything but a practical joke. The gas is not deadly.
Judging by the free use made of it in the operation of police and soldiers called out to quell civilian disorders, it is not even harmful.

Investigation of the personalities behind the "joke" points to the probability that they should not be taken too seriously either. Members of a little known political party, they are up the usual blind alley favored by their type—trying to get by the use of explosives what they are too weak to try to get by intelligence. Instead of being in a fret over the little inconvenience of a building filled with tear gas for a few hours last week, the excited members of the stock exchange and the busy forces of law which are running around in circles trying to clear up the case should be deeply grateful that someone invented a way for crackpots to express themselves which doesn't do any more damage than a tear gas bomb.

A Disappointment.

The defective valve which spoiled the stratosphere flight of Lieutenant Commander Settle is one of those things which test the toughness of a man's resistance to disappointment. Fortunately, Commander Settle seems to be well fortified. At the instant of failure, he is ready to try again.

It seems almost incredible to most of the millions who have awaited the flight that a minor fault serious enough to ruin so great a project could have escaped detection. By way of comparison, it is as if a motorist were to plan a long trip for months ahead of time and discover, when only a block from home, that he had forgotten to adjust the brakes.

The huge balloon and equipment prepared for America's first challenge to space above the earth's atmosphere is infinitely more complicated than an automobile, however. Commander Settle, long acquainted with the vagaries of the science of free ballooning, undoubtedly did everything in his power to insure the flight's success.

When he finally penetrates the stratosphere—and he undoubtedly will succeed the next time—there will be repetitions of praise for the daring of the thing he is trying to do. If successful, he will ascend to a point something more than 10 miles above the surface of the earth. It is truly a wonderful venture.
Yet, the failure of the elaborate equipment prepared for the flight to get more than a few thousand feet off the ground the first time is a reminder that the moon, nearest heavenly body, is more than 200,000 miles away and that man cannot hope to ascend safely more than perhaps 100,000 feet into the air.

A Clue.

Federal financial wizards and those who wish they could be wizards have been looking over the balance sheet for July, first month of the new fiscal year.
They hope to find in it a clue to the success of the government's curious bookkeeping method, by which ordinary and extraordinary expenditures are being kept separate for the purpose of achieving a balance in the ordinary expenditures.

The net excess of expenditures in July this year was $99,488,350. In July last year it was $397,000,000.
The figures break down, in round numbers as follows:

| Expenditures— | July, 1933 | July, 1932 |
|---------------|---------------|---------------|
| General | $186,000,000 | $385,000,000 |
| Emergency | 75,000,000 | 150,000,000 |

|--------------------|---------------|---------------|
| Total expenditures | $271,000,000 | $500,000,000 |
| Total receipts | 163,000,000 | 88,000,000 |

|--------------------------------|---------------|---------------|
| Gross excess | $108,000,000 | $413,000,000 |
| Excess receipts in trust funds | 8,000,000 | 16,000,000 |

Net excess $ 99,000,000 $397,000,000

It will be seen that if the emergency expenditures, some of which are considered funded capital investment and others of which are supposed to be repaid, are disregarded the net excess of expenditures in July this year was only $24,000,000. Financial analysts point out that July is a month of small income tax payments, and that if we credit it with $61,000,000 as its probable share of income tax receipts and deduct $17,000,000 actually received, there is left $44,000,000—$20,000,000 more than the actual excess of general expenditures over receipts and only $55,000,000 less than the actual excess of expenditures over receipts.

The clue indicates, therefore, that the chance of a budget balanced as to ordinary expenditures is better than 50-50, barring difficulties with the government's recovery program. The people hope it may lead to something more cheering than another year of budget figures which show expense running away from income at the rate of thousands of dollars a day.

An Honest Run.

Announcement that federal narcotics agents are working in Ohio to find evidence of race horses being drugged is heard with varying emotions. It seems probable that enthusiasm for the drive they are expected to make exists most abundantly in those who know least about racing.

That does not mean, of course, that any intelligent citizen condones the use of drugs to make any animal produce some unusual performance. Feeding against such a practice is almost as strong as that against use of habit-forming drugs by individuals.
It is an unsocial and a dangerous practice.

It does mean that men and women accustomed to racing and its curious ways doubt that making it hard for a handful of unscrupulous trainers to get certain dangerous drugs will do anything tangible to clean up the dirty places in the sport of kings. There are too many other subterfuges, not quite so effective, perhaps, but good enough to be used as substitutes.

Race horses are "doped" to make them perform better than they would be able to perform without a stimulant. To the uninformed better, the practice means occasional loss of a wager on a better horse which, unexpectedly, is outrun by an inferior animal under the influence of one of several drugs. To the informed and sometimes to the lucky better, the practice of drugging horses may mean a cleanup on a long-shot bet.

Trainers were stimulating their horses with whisky long before the first one thought of using heroin, laudanum and kola nut. Ingenuity has gone so far as to devise a minute electric battery which can be used to shock the horse during a race. There always will be jockeys willing to throw a race. Exterminating the dopesters—if they can be found in Ohio—won't increase the probability of an honest run where insiders want to make it dishonest, at least not enough to calculate.

A Disappearing Fear.

A stabilizing influence of great importance is the strengthening conviction that President Roosevelt does not intend to use the authority of inflation vested in him by the special session of congress. To a remarkable extent, apprehension on this point has been allayed, although no definite statement has been made on the subject.

The treatment of price increases in the blanket code is interpreted widely to mean that the President, if he had been thinking of inflation as an immediate possibility, would have enumerated it among the factors justifying an advance in prices. Only increases in production, replacement or invoice costs and taxes and other costs resulting from participation in the recovery program are listed.

Another reassuring sign is seen by recent announcement of a new long term issue of treasury bonds, which was immediately oversubscribed. Intimations have been made, also, that the treasury is seriously considering another and larger issue of long term bonds to take up the Fourth Liberty Loan and also some of the outstanding short term treasury securities. It is not probable that the treasury could ask for investors to go into its bonds without assurance that they would not be made unprofitable by inflation.

Good Sign.

Judging from suspension of three members of the Leavenworth penitentiary staff for granting undue privileges to a Chicago beer hound, the American who has suspected that this sort of thing is common will have to revise his opinion somewhat. If the department of justice is willing to act in one case, it must be assumed that it is alert to all cases where there is sufficient evidence to warrant action.

It is not demanded by any reasonable person that all prisoners be awarded exactly the same treatment.
On the contrary, there is increasing demand for intelligent discrimination, to the end that more prisoners capable of reform may be salvaged from the criminal class. But coddling is not part of the demand. Certainly, everything possible should be done to prevent the impression that money can buy privileges.

The most tangible reforms being made in the prison system are being carried out under federal auspices.
The new federal plant at Lewisburg, Pa., has been offered as a model of what is possible with proper equipment and personnel. Leavenworth, perhaps the best known of the federal penitentiaries, will profit in public esteem from evidence that its inmates are not permitted to ease their durance with unearned privileges.

Comment of the Press

EXPANDING AN ANCIENT IDEA.
The summer season of the University of Wichita held on rubber tires, 300 young men and women students traveling over the country in privately owned automobiles and chartered buses. Recently they were near New York City. The caravan stops for two weeks at points of interest for nature studies and visits to libraries and museums.

The plan is not wholly new. It is a modern development and expansion of Aristotle's idea. That philosopher whose curiosity was whetted by everything he saw, and who had a passion for detailed inquiry, lectured to his classes while walking in the Lyceum, in the suburbs of Athens. Somewhat physical effort seemed to stimulate cerebral action, and the philosophy expounded by Aristotle in his peripatetic school has influenced the world for two thousand years.

Under intelligent direction by inspired teachers, the University of Wichita students should not only see the country, but learn a great deal about it physically, politically and economically.

Too many aimless travelers have eyes, but they see not—comprehendingly.
Wiley Post, flying around the top of the world in eight days, complained that he could see little but mountains—mountains of difficulties and dangers.
In half an hour, with gazetteer and encyclopedia, one may learn at home more than many who go globe trotting on transcontinental trains record smashing steamships and airplanes—Toledo Blade.

A WORTHWHILE SUGGESTION

robberies in Mexico by having the Rurales take band-

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Hemophilia Is Easy To Detect.

A short time ago I received many requests for information about a disease known as "hemo-philia." It was not until I attended a movie and saw the picture
"Rasputin" that I understood why so many of the inquiries were appearing in my mail. The story of Rasputin is based on the fact that the czar's only son was a sufferer from hemophilia.

Among the letters was one from a young girl who said she was a "bleeder." This is the name given to an individual afflicted with hemophilia. Sufferers from this disease bleed upon the slightest provocation.

I am confident that this girl is not afflicted with this disease. I say this without hesitancy because hemophilia rarely occurs in females. It is a hereditary disease transmitted by the female, but found only in the male offspring.

A daughter may inherit the tendency but show no sign of the disease. She is not a bleeder, but if she marries and has a male child he is likely to be afflicted with hemophilia. He is a bleeder. Unfortunately, once the disease is implanted in a family it will continue being handed down until that family becomes extinct. The victim of this disease is susceptible to bleeding, even to severe hemorrhage.
One attack may prove fatal.

The bleeding may begin with a simple blow or injury, such as a scratch, a fall or a push. The disease may be present for many years and accidentally be discovered by the bleeding after a slight abrasion, cut, extraction of a tooth, or the removal of tonsils. In these cases the bleeding is sudden, unexpected and severe.

Coagulation Test
When the tendency is unsuspected and the subject has a minor operation such as the removal of tonsils and adenoids, the sufferer may bleed to death. Within recent years this danger has been minimized by the routine use of a special examination called the "bleeding and coagulation time test." This is used in suspected cases of hemophilia and on all children admitted to a hospital for operation.

The cause of hemophilia has never been discovered. Much research work has been conducted all over the world in an effort to solve this problem. Within recent years the disease has assumed less dangerous significance, because of its early recognition.

Ohio History

GRAPEVINE SWING IN WOODS.

Now that the original forest trees have been for the most part cut away in Ohio, the farmer boy of today probably never knows the pleasures of the grapevine swing that belonged to the country boy of pioneer days. Even as late as 50 years ago, such a swing was occasionally to be found in the few original forest tracts still to be found on the farms of Ohio.

A grapevine growing by chance at the base of a tree would attach itself to the bark of the tree by tendrils and year after year creep higher and higher until the upper branches were reached. Attached to these limbs, the support of tendrils on the trunk no longer needed, the body of the vine, now from four to six inches in diameter near the ground, would swing loose down directly from some limb, from 75 to 100 feet from the ground. The country boy did not need to have the possibilities pointed out to him.

Pipes buried in the ground can be found with a new tool that is drawn through them, spreading the cement evenly as it moves forward.

A Washington Daybook

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Aug. 8.—Little opportunity for relaxation or recreation has been afforded those high in the ranks of official Washington
since the administration began functioning
in March.

Cabinet members have been deluged with work, what with trying to make good on their part's pledge to cut government's cost to the bone
and the added burden of helping to administer the vast machinery set up in the last congress to bring about economic recovery in the nation.

There has been a notable lack even of inter-cabinet dinners and other social engagements for them
all. For a large number of men concerned with the "new deal" there has been working from 12 to 18 hours a day and often on Sunday's as well.

But they have their hobbies and their own methods of getting away from the daily grind. And they'll be at them at the very first opportunity.

President Roosevelt, of course, turns to the sea whenever possible. The White House swimming pool also comes in for its share of attention.

Vice President Garner is having an easy time of it in Texas fishing for bass. During the special session, however, he could be found on many afternoons at the baseball park here rooting for Washington Secretary Woodin's love of music is well known. In the press room at the treasury department there hangs a huge cartoon which regularly appears in a nationally known magazine depicting Woodin surrounded by newspapermen strumming a guitar and remarking to his audience: "Remember, boys, this is off the record."

Law Douglas, director of the budget, rides a bicycle around town for exercise.
Secretary Dern of the war department has cultivated a taste for flying since entering the cabinet.
Secretary Swanson fishes. They used to say of the navy head when he was in the senate that he caught more fish in the cloakroom than any other senator.

Senator Ikeck is a gardener and is an expert in the choice and cultivation of plants and shrubs. His specialty is dahlias. He has originated a number of varieties of his own: one he named for his wife which received certificate of merit from the American Dahlia society and has been patented under the new law. He is also a stamp collector.

Marvin McIntyre, one of the members of the Roosevelt secretariat, is a member of a famed amateur quartet around the White House that sings at various times for the President's enjoyment.

Secretary Hull for awhile was enjoying himself in London at the world economic conference. His best friends say that he gets his only recreation in thinking—considering—and he should have had plenty of opportunity for thought there.

YOUR CHOICE.

All things are waiting for your choice,
Your choice that makes a life, or marm;
Some dwell with sorrow, some rejoice;
Some see the darkness; some, the stars,
Some count the grinding hours of toil
And some, the rich reward they gain;
Some ears are open for turmoil, While others catch the lark's refrain.

Would you have rapture or regret To sit with through life's twilight hour?
Would you remember or forget?
The choice is wholly in your power!
Stretch forth your hand; take what you will,
You are not stayed by bond or bar.
The choice is yours for good or ill,
Some see the darkness; some, the star!

Marry-go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND

These Modern Lovers.
Nothing seems to relieve a man of a "hangover" so effectively as bawling out the family—or the office force.

Sometimes, a man may marry a woman he believes to be his intellectual superior—but he first takes every precaution to assure himself that she doesn't know it.

A man has reached the "Dangerous Age" when he stops trying to dodge temptations—and women —and begins to wonder if he's missing any.

When two young moderns divorce, they usually remain perfectly good friends. The "ideally married" couple is rapidly giving place to the "ideally divorced" couple.

Of course, Man is the practical sex; but he is still inclined to pick out a new stenographer for the length of her eyelashes or the wave in her hair, rather than for her spelling and punctuation.

There is something to be said for alimony. If anybody needs money, it is a poor, lonely grass-widow who doesn't know where her next "Daddy" is coming from!

All that the modern woman asks of man is that he accept her as his economic equal—and then keep up the alimony payments.

The Younger Generation would have much more ease of mind, if there were some place where they could check their parents, evenings, so that they could find them and take them home at a respectable hour.

There is nothing more beautiful than a man's simple, childlike faith that no matter how long he may keep a woman waiting on the doorstep of his heart, she will always be right there, when he gets through playing around and decides to let her in.

New York Day by Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

New York, Aug. 8.—I never pass the south side of the Times building without a thought of the old Forty Second Street Country Club.

The fire plug which was the headquarters of the still standing around it, particularly in the late afternoon, gathered leading figures of the Broadway of that day.

From there they usually moved cater-cornered across Broadway
to rest their feet
on the rail in the rainbowy splash of Maxfield Parry's
"Old King Cole" and "what gathered behind the Knickerbocker bar. Merry gentlemen all! Collaborators in a bon homie that gave generous tingle to a then illustrous rue.

Best stories of the town originated there. No club anywhere was so magnificently grotesque, or hilariously Elizabethan. One summer afternoon Jim Regan, proprietor of the fashionable inn, walked into the bar and said bruskiy: "I'm sorry, gentlemen, I do not want your business."

There was a stunned silence.
Glasses were gravely set down and in single file the Forty-second Street Country club walked to the Albany bar at 41st. But in a few days Regan begged them to return.
He had not realized their presence was the lodestone that filled his bar.

Many knight errants tried to attach themselves to the Forty Second Street Country Club but none succeeded. It remained with the original membership to the final drink when prohibition came. The roster was Frank Ward O'Malley, Irvin Cobb, Wilson Mizner, Hugh Chilvers, Della Fox's leading man, Paul Armstrong, Fred Thompson, Drury Underwood, Glenmore (Stuffy) Davis, Eddie Pidgeon, James Pooten, Tom Riley, Masco Peters and Morgan Robertson.

Morgan Robertson, whose salty sea stories are now classics, was the hardest of that blithesome crew ploughing the Broadway seas.
When his magazine checks came,
he spent them within the hour over the mahogany and when he borrowed an occasional tinner would say: "I shall be eternally indebted to you"—and always was!
He is reputed in scientific circles to be the inventor of the periscope.

for which he never received credit.
He died, as genius so often does, neglected.

Irvin Cobb's one and only passion during this era at the Cassino, lasted one week. Cobb said afterward the only satisfaction was Mrs. Cobb. He would never tackle the theater again although he turned down hundreds of offers, not only to appear on the boards, but to write stage plays.

Up to the street from the Knickerbocker was another afternoon high light of men about town and exquisite fooling. The meeting place was the "cartoonists' cafe" at Churchill's. It was during this period when cartoons of Cassius of the World, Rogers of the Herald, Homer Davenport of the Evening Mail, and T. E. Powers played some important parts in the political world. So far as I know Powers pen is the only one still active and very active it is, too.

In a sedate restaurant I sat a table away from Dr. John F. Ed-mann, the great Ohio born surgeon. I was especially interested in his hands as I am in the hands of all genius. I expected to see long, tapering, artistic fingers. Instead I saw Carnera-like hands with amazingly short, stubby fingers. Yet one only had to watch them in ordinary usages of eating utensils to see why they have been classified as the most terrific in the world.

Visiting a portrait painter's studio, I became jerry to a "trick trick. A distinguished gentleman called to see the completed, canvas of himself. He was severely pleased but after squinting from all angles was dubious about the fluff of shadow, like that of a part on a woman's throat, and a part on the temple. The artist, in a desperate effort to catch his brush professional flicks with his brush.
The result instantly satisfied the sitter. After his departure I remarked how deftly the artist had made the change. "There was no change," he said. "I merely used dry brush. It always pleases them."

"BONDAGE" ON OHIO
SCREEN TWO DAYS
OPENING WEDNESDAY

Grace Sothcott Leakes novel, "Bondage," has been brought to the screen under the original title. The picture which will be shown Wednesday and Thursday at the Ohio, features Dorothy Jordan and Alexander Kirkland. Because the subject matter will not be understood by children, the picture will be shown only to those under 16 years of age.

The picture gives Miss Jordan her first important role after a series of successful minor roles. She is one of the prettiest and the most popular of the Hollywood stars.
Kirkland is the youth whose character has been lined so often with Crawford since her divorce.

LADY'S PROFESSION ON MARION SCREEN

Alison Skipworth and Roland Young share the spotlight in "A Lady's Profession," which opened today at the Marion. The last showings will be Wednesday night, and Thursday. The picture, made by Rex Beach, is a melodrama of the old-fashioned type. Helen MacKellar plays the leading role, with Eric Linden
and Jean Arthur providing romance,
and "Skeets" Gallagher taking care
of the comedy.

DRAMA AT STATE

"The Past of Marion Holmes" is the picture which is making a return showing at the State today and Wednesday. This picture, made from Rex Beach's "The Goose Woman," is a melodrama of the old fashioned type. Helen MacKellar plays the leading role, with Eric Linden
and Jean Arthur providing romance,
and "Skeets" Gallagher taking care
of the comedy.

Then from southern Ohio and its many caverns came Fred Hess determined to explore the caves. Today they are lighted by electricity and there are steps down which hundreds of persons have gone to marvel at the sight of the "mystery river" so clear that a depth of many feet seems only inches.

Hess literally carved the caves out of solid rock. Where others feared to venture, he crawled on hands and knees to begin the task of making one of the pits accessible for visitors. Most of the work was done by hand.
Visioning a network of underground passages through which the water might flow, Hess later turned to the second hole, from which a brewery once pumped water for making beer. From a shaft already constructed, he started again the process of opening, lighting and carving out passageways.

Hess believes the water enters into Sandusky bay because a spot near the location of the hidden river never freezes in winter.

X-70 MORE POPULAR THAN NEXT FIVE GASOLINES COMBINED

49,311 owners of all makes of cars give X-70 overwhelming preference in state-wide survey!

R. L. Polk & Company, nationally famous statisticians, have just completed one of the most sweeping investigations of gasoline preference ever made in this state.

Trained reporters personally interviewed a total of 49,311 motorists representing every section of the state. People from all walks of life, owners of all different makes, all different kinds of cars, old and new, were asked to name their favorite motor fuel.

If you were one of the many people interviewed, you know already with what exactness and accuracy these important statistics were gathered.

the facts. For them it was a Polk assignment;
they had no idea who wanted the information,
they were gathering or how it was to be used.
No matter what gasoline a motorist wanted, a complete study was made of his gas, including the reason for his choice of brand.

In the final tabulations, X-70 rolled up an experience majority vote that completely swamped every other brand. ALL facts its strongest rival. X-70 proved more popular than the next five gasolines combined! With the odds so heavily in favor of your liking it, why don't you try a tankful, too!

Couple Wed At Fort Seneca To Live in Marion

MR. AND MRS. MILFORD SCHMIDT, whose marriage took place Saturday at Fort Seneca, will make their home at 915 South Prospect street in Marion upon their return from a week's wedding trip to Chicago and Indiana.

Rev. Elias Rosenberger, pastor of the M. P. church in Steubenville, uncle of the bride read the single ring service at 10 o'clock in the Reformed church at Fort Seneca, assisted by the pastor, Rev. E. R. Ehmeyer. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served for members of the immediate families and close friends.

Before her marriage Miss Schmidt was Miss Marcell Rosenberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Rosenberger of Fort Seneca. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Schmidt of Agosta and is employed as an instructor in the Pleasant township schools.

The bride is a graduate of the Old Fort High school with the class of 1927, where she was an honor student, and was a member of the graduating class at Flower Hospital. Nurses training school in Toledo in 1930. She has been on the staff at the Fostoria City hospital for the last two and one-half years.

Mr. Schmidt graduated from the Agosta High school in 1926 and from the school of agriculture at Ohio State university in 1930. He has been a member of the teaching staff at Old Fort High school for three years.

is in nature's fertility. Everybody their young ones grew up and raised families, would fill the ocean solidly full of shad in a few years, and that the female oyster lays millions of eggs.

When destructive sharks and other fish are killed off, as wolves have been killed in sheep-raising countries, there will be more fish of the finest kind than 10 times the present population of the earth could use.

DISPATCHES from Baton Rouge, La., tells of a "crayfish run" in millions, blackening the highway for a distance of five miles, with natives shoveling the crayfish into bags and passing automobiles crushing thousands of them.

Many of the finest animals, like the passenger pigeons that once flew over this country in hundreds of millions, have been destroyed. But there are many food varieties left, on land and in the sea.

ACCORDING to statistics gathered under the direction of Harold F. Clark, professor of economics at Columbia university, there is no case for 12,000,000 idle in the United States. In fact, with proper organization, United States industry and its various lines of effort could provide jobs for 50,000,000 persons more than the present population of this country.

This should interest those who imagine that what the country needs is to keep out immigration. What it really needs is to encourage immigration of the right kind, the new, adventurous, ambitious blood that has built the country thus far.

Professor Clark says there would be just as many idle if the population of the United States were half what it is.

It is also well to remember that when the population of this country was below four millions there was only one mechanic able to make a dollar a day all the year round, and you could hire first-class workmen for from $70 to $100 a year.

GERMANY WISHES to coax or force Austria to join Germans in their new Hitler ideas and their interesting plans for "All Aryan German rule."

Austria says, "No, thank you!" and Europe's big governing powers, England, France and Italy, particularly object to the idea of a German-Austrian union. Therefore the more the big powers may allow Austria to increase the size of her army and the number of her fighting units, the more they are limiting Austria's army to 30,000 men. This would annoy Chancellor Hitler, still bound by the limitations of the Versailles treaty.

GUARD AGAINST COAL SHORTAGE

By The Associated Press
YOUNGSTOWN, O. Aug. 8.—Steel mills here are bracing for heavy tonnages of Kenton, West Virginia and Ohio coal to offset the possibility of a shortage due to shutdown of their mines in Pennsylvania.

The Youngstown Sheet & Tube company had 25,000 tons of coal a seven-day supply for its mills above ground in Pennsylvania when the strike was called. This coal still is being shipped here.

RELIEF FUND PROVIDED.

Question Box

Question—How can I screen windows which swing out and in?

Answer—A common method of screening these windows is to use twin sliding screen fitted sliding either vertically or horizontally. This slides in place by means of grooves. It may be placed, raised or lowered sideways and remains in position while the casement is just.

Roll screens are desirable, may be entirely concealed, made unobtrusive. They are easily adjusted and do not interfere with curtains and draperies and is a method from that point of view.

Today there is a device for opening and closing the case without it being necessary to touch the screen. This is a great improvement as it allows the window to be closed quickly in case of a fire, which gather on screens at such a time have no opportunity to get in as the windows are being closed.

HEARS SAFETY DRIVE ADDRESS

Industrial Commission Member Speaks to Y's Men's Club Here.

Sidney Smith of the Industrial Commission of Ohio was a guest speaker at the dinner meeting of the Y's Men's Service club last night in the ballroom at Hotel Harding. He discussed the safety campaign to be sponsored by the club the next week in September.

Mr. Smith will come to Marion the week preceding the campaign for meetings with industrial groups, schools, civic groups and clubs which will cooperate with the club in the campaign. Speakers for the campaign will include Harry Sain, H. P. Hayne, P. B. Morton, Thomas P. Kearns, superintendent of the state division of safety and hygiene and Mr. Smith.

Harry Dowler is chairman of the safety campaign committee, assisted by Bob Byrd, Rev. James O. Dodd and Ray Sutton. Plans for the campaign will be completed at a meeting of the committee with Thomas Gregory, chairman of the Industrial Commission of Ohio at an early date.

John Bartram was enrolled as a new member and guests included Gerald Byers, Kenneth Midlam and Albert Lincoln.

Edwin Probst, chairman of the scout committee, reported Robert Uncapher as scoutmaster for the troop being sponsored by the club. In his talk Mr. Smith stated that plants in Marion would save money by entering the Safety campaign.

Tragic scenes were enacted as hundreds of weeping persons flocked to enter the emergency hospital to see and try to identify the dead.

Strike Spreading—Meanwhile, the strike that started nearly two weeks ago with a small walkout of omnibus drivers and since has gained adherents in nearly every trade, developed further today with the announcement that employees in the public instruction and treasury departments were prepared to strike. The former ask eight concessions, including wages overdue the last nine months.

Other departments said they would meet this afternoon to consider striking.

Despite denials by governmental officials that members of the president's liberal party had asked that he withdraw, it was learned on reliable authority that such a request was made. Persons who were hopeful he could be persuaded today to ask for a leave of absence.

The legislature yesterday gave the president authority to suspend constitutional guarantees of personal liberty in an effort to curb the spreading strike. Immediately military forces took over Havana and heavy firing rang through the streets.

MILK PRODUCERS TO FORM ARMED GUARD

New York Dairyman Act To Halt Dumping by Strikers.

By The Associated Press
ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Several groups of milk producers today considered organizing volunteer guards to end New York state's milk strike disorders described by Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. as "a reign of terror."

Five hundred members of the Dairyman's league and Sheffield Producers association, powerful co-operators, decided to arm themselves and patrol their plants in Otsego county unless state and local authorities can provide more protection.

It was understood that similar action was being planned in other sections where picketing and milk dumping continued in spite of patrols afforded by state police and sheriff's deputies.

New charges that "Reds and Bolsheviks" are promoting the strike followed the exposure of the plot to dynamite bridges and culverts near Rochester last night to stop milk shipments. The veteran assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, New York Democrat, blamed the Communists for the violence and he demanded in the legislature that Governor Herbert H. Lehman call out the state militia.

Meanwhile, hundreds of deputies appointed as a result of Governor Lehman's message to sheriffs of all upstate counties yesterday, joined the steel-helmeted state troopers in carrying out the governor's dictum that "all law-abiding citizens must be protected."

RETAIL STORES ACT ON HOURS IN NRA

will be in effect until a national code is adopted for these stores. Food dealers meet tonight with intentions of settling the question of opening and closing hours.

Cooperation with NRA was still the major interest of other Marion employers' groups today. Definite strides forward were suspended in all but one case, however, as trade groups awaited developments.

Impetus was given the NRA program, The Associated Press reported, as Governor White threw the full force of the state government behind it. Yesterday the governor ordered all state departments to purchase their supplies from companies operating under NRA codes.

Boothblacks Join

The only local action reported today was that of the Marion Boothblacks' association, formed last night by shoeshiners determined not to be outdone by other groups or associations. The boothblacks, in a code which they announce will be sent to Washington, ask a 56-hour week with a minimum wage of $1 a day. Five shoeshining parlors are reported to be effected by this agreement. J. C. Stadler was elected temporary president.

At least two other Marion groups, theater managers and contractors and subcontractors, were postponing action—both the water men waiting to hear from their national groups and the contractors holding out until a supply of certificates of compliance is received at the post-office.

Bucyrus citizens formed a city-wide NRA organization, with Postmaster Carl Brown and Mrs. Eugene Stuart, Democratic leader, in the chief positions.

Contractors expect that about 40 of their number will align themselves in support of the NRA program as soon as certificates are available. They will then operate under the blanket code, contractors said, until a specific one is adopted by their national association.

Marion theater managers are awaiting the outcome of a meeting in New York today between national associations of distributors, producers and exhibitors before taking any local action.

Gene Tunney, Now 'Family Man,' Is Glad He Retired from Ring

By International News Service

NEW YORK—James J. "Gene" Tunney, who hung up his boxing gloves to become a commuter, sat at his desk in offices high up in a skyscraper office building here, and reflected what a wise prize fighter he had been to quit while boxing as a sport was still in the million dollar class.

It was five years ago July 26 that Tunney, heavyweight champion of the world, stepped out of the ring in the Yankee Stadium, where he had just battered Tom Heeney into a bloody caricature of the Hard Rock Man, and announced that he was going to retire.

Today, surveying the sad spectre of present-day boxing—there is not much to survey, with falling gate receipts and apathetic fans—he is glad he meant that retirement.

"Boxing is still the greatest sport in the world," he declared. "It appeals to all classes of people. It is exciting to the combatants and it furnishes a thrilling spectacle. Boxing is fine exercise, splendid for building character. But it has to be good boxing," he added.

"Nothing about the soft-spoken, intellectual Tunney, sitting there in his dark blue business suit, suggests the slugger who fought his way up from a Greenwich Village tenement to the championship. He looks—and talks—like anything else, business executive, college professor, writer, perhaps. His blue eyes are alert and changeable in his brown face—sometimes thoughtful almost to the point of being poetic, at other times flashing with quick thought.

and diamond bracelets to the ring-side than any fights before or since. All that is behind Gene. Regardless of the rumors that crop up from time to time, he will tell you that he isn't going back.

It is as private citizen that he commutes from his office to his Connecticut estate, near Stamford, every day. There, in the spacious old New England farmhouse that they remodeled, the Tunneys lead a quiet, charming suburban life, enlivened by the informal, outdoor social activities of their neighbors.

He keeps as fit now as he did when he was in training—and he weighs 192 pounds, exactly his weight when he defended his title last time.

With his beautiful wife, the former Polly Lauder, he leads the athletic, outdoor life that appeals so strongly to both of them. Polly is strong and tanned, a vivacious companion in all her husband's activities. They are a perfectly matched couple.

The pride of their hearts is Gene Lauder Tunney, their son, who is two years old and already very handsome with blond curls and the corn-flower blue eyes of his father.

To Review Problem of Inflation and Management of Currency.

By The Associated Press
HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 8.—President Roosevelt went into conference late today with a special staff of monetary experts in a session expected to review completely the problem of inflation and the management of currency. Secretary Woodin is scheduled to be here tomorrow.

James Warburg, special inflation advisor to the London economic conference delegation, and the two professors, George Warren of Cornell, and James H. Rogers of Yale, who have been making a secret study of government finance motivated here from their various homes.

The fact that the men have recently been separated, indicates that the President had something in mind, rather than expecting any special report from them.

WIFE OF NOTED AIR PILOT KILLED

By The Associated Press
GRAND HAVEN, Mich., Aug. 8.—Mrs. Albert Hagenberger, 33, of Dayton, O., wife of the noted pilot who was injured fatally when her automobile left a highway near Spring Lake and overturned.

Capt. Hagenberger, of Wright Field, Dayton, and Lieut. Lester J. Matland, in 1928, were the first to fly from the Pacific coast to the Hawaiian Islands. Hagenberger was driving when the accident occurred.

Similar to celluloid but stronger, waterproof material, having the same uses as being made from wood pulp.

Johnson Tough-Wastes No Words in Recovery Battle

International News Service
CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 8.—Just as a man is this Gen. Johnson, administrator of the National Industrial Recovery act, the impression he gave as he crossed Ohio in an airplane was that of a man who was not only a fighter but a winner.

Gen. Johnson, and exactly just what he was, a formidable combination of the suave politician and the soldier.

His appearance was not what one would expect of a man who had spent years of his life in the army, but it was the impression he gave as he crossed Ohio in an airplane that was the real test.

Johnson is tall, but his shoulders and robust build give the appearance of being a man of average height. His face is a study in contrasts, from years of army life, it is a study in contrasts, from years of army life, it is a study in contrasts, from years of army life, it is a study in contrasts.

Beer Battle Stirs Up Nation's "Dry Capital"

There's a new battle brewing in Westerville, O., long the home of the Anti-Saloon League, with 33 beer challenging the rule of soda pop. Charles V. Taylor has started selling beer at his store under permit, but dries are opposing his new venture strongly. Taylor and his place of business are pictured above.

By The Associated Press
WESTERVILLE, O.—Not since 1873 when a saloon opened here but wasn't a great success—has Westerville been so aroused. Beer is being sold—well, a little of it—right in Westerville, home and headquarters of the Anti-Saloon League of America, openly for the first time in 60 years.

Charles V. Taylor has obtained a permit from the state liquor control commission to sell 32 beer, after getting, as he says, "the recommendation of some of the best men in town."

And the new brew has gone on sale despite the petition of Dr. Howard Hyde Russell, aged founder of the Anti-Saloon league, asking Taylor to limit his beverages to Soda pop.

Veterans of the prohibition movement who have stood shoulder to shoulder in more than one battle, often victoriously, are getting ready for a fight right on the home grounds.

For 60 years saloon-less and for 26 years the "dry capital" of the nation, Westerville in 1938 saw Dr. Russell turn the first earth for the league's new $500,000 printing plant.

When headquarters was moved here, Here the league directed its vast machine furthering passage and ratification of the eighteenth amendment.

At the principal corner on the main street, a fountain of running ice water is Westerville's public "monument" to the cause.

To settle whether Taylor can sell beer or not, Prof. R. E. Mendenhall of Otterbein college, chairman of the local law enforcement committee, has asked lawyers to thumb through Westerville's numerous old ordinances to see what can be done.

There may be a local option election in November. A mass meeting is to be called to whip up public sentiment. One ordinance prohibiting sale of beverages containing more than half of 1 per cent of alcohol may be used for an injunction suit.

Since prohibition bootleggers have been few and far between, city officials have said.

Curfew Bell Rings Again for Youth in Ohio Village

By International News Service
ZANESVILLE, O., Aug. 8.—Curfew shall ring tonight, tomorrow night and every night at Philo, O., a village near here which is modern in every detail except for its old iron bell which clangs noisily in a belfry at the town hall tonight.

Marshall Harry Anders pulls the rope, and conscientiously.

Summers he rings the old bell last vestige of the passing era, at 9 p. m. Winters the bell peals out its message at 8 p. m.

The town has a sawny riding academy, one of the largest electric power plants in the country, and is entirely modern. But it will not forego the old curfew, which has just been restored to use.

"There is a real need for a curfew nowadays," says the marshal, in explaining how the village went back to its time-honored custom last year. "Some of the youngsters are brought up on the streets almost. Some of the little tads, not more than 12 years old, would stay out until 12 o'clock if we let them."

School teachers said they noticed immediate improvement as soon as the curfew was placed back in use. The marshal, however, is lenient.

"When there's a social or doings on the square," he says, "we let them stay out a little late."

SINCLAIR AGENTS TO MEET TONIGHT

Agents in the Marion district for the Sinclair Refining Co. will meet tonight at 8:30 in Hotel Harding for a semi-monthly business discussion. Dinner will be served at that hour. William Griffin, Marion agent, will be in charge.

Agents in Marion, Delaware, Mt. Gilead, Bucyrus, Marysville, Mansfield and Columbus will be represented by from 12 to 14 men.

The Stars Say

Wednesday, Aug. 9.

The lunar transit bearing rule of the conditions and events of this day hold augury of unusually active and interesting developments, particularly in all pertaining to writings, printing, publishing and commercial promotion. The mind will be stimulated to creative and original work in these lines. General business talents may be keen, although employment for others has some slightly adverse aspect. Litigation may be successful and good news or letters may assist to progress.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of unusual liveliness and interest.

KALLIO TOO CLEVER
WEAVER LOSES BOUT
TO CHAMP RINGMAN

Hoosier Misses Flying Dive
and Injury Ends Mat Battle.

Buck Weaver, the Terre Haute, Ind., grappler, made a desperate bid for the world welterweight wrestling crown at the St. Louis Shovel arena last night but the champion, Gus Kallio, was too clever.

As a result of being overzealous to win, Weaver put himself out of the running and the match only lasted for one fall.

Weaver made a dive at Kallio but the star from Finland stepped out of the ropes, smashing his shoulder against the edge of the ring. A rib was broken and he was unable to continue after being counted out by Referee Tom Temple.

Looked Like Novice
Weaver, who has been quite popular with Marion fans, looked like a youngster just taking up the wrestling game when he tangled with Kallio. All of his sensational holds which have won him victory after victory were of no avail when aimed at the champion. Kallio was never in danger and Weaver was continually near the point of having his shoulders pinned to the mat.

The only fall of the match came in 38 minutes. Weaver, becoming desperate when his pet leg trips, flying drop kicks and flying head scissors failed to work, resorted to slugging and flying tackles. But the veteran defender of the title just couldn't be bothered by such tactics. He sidestepped Weaver's wild plunges and the final lunge sent the Indianapolis out of the ring.

Von Lehman Loses
Karl Von Lehman, the Colorado German who looks like a monster, lost in straight falls to Jack Kennedy of Toledo, Kan., in the semi-final. Von Lehman was disqualified both times for unnecessary roughness. Von Lehman won the first fall in 22 minutes with some fancy slugging and a slam but decided to add a few touches after the referee had declared the match at a finish. A number of low blows resulted in the German being disqualified in the second fall.

The match was full of excitement with fans yelling for Von Lehman's scalp. Kennedy was willing to mix it but was no match for the German's roughness. Packy McFarland deserted the padded leather mitts for the art of toe twisting and defeated Tony Caprino of Marion in the preliminary. The fall came in seven minutes.

Title Play-Off Looms
in No. 2 Church League

Misplays Cost Methodists Chance To Cinch Title; Three Other Games Played.

By BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

Taking full advantage of a couple of enemy misplays and in general playing exactly the brand of ball one would expect a team to exhibit when it is gunning for a championship, the First Reformed Sunday School softball team yesterday blanked the Epworth Seniors from their position as sole occupant of first place in the No. 2 church league. The Methodists were forced to take the short end of a 2-0 score and at the same time to move over and share the top position with the winners. In all probability the Reformed will result in the No. 2 league ending its titular race in a deadlock, necessitating a play-off for the crown between Epworth and Reformed. Both have one postponed game to play but on past performance, both should come through with another triumph.

Dale Schwaderer, the city's premier right hander, held sway on the knoll for Reformed yesterday and turned in another of those pitching masterpieces for which he has become locally famous. He was opposed by Bryant Corwin and it may be recorded here and now that Corwin pitched a ball game good enough to win nine out of ten. It was his misfortune to be pitted against a team which was playing inspired ball and to have his mates commit a couple of fielding breaches at critical moments. Both pitchers gave up five hits. Corwin walked two men and Schwaderer four. Corwin struck out two and Schwaderer four.

No Hits Needed
Reformed scored its first run in the fourth inning without the aid of a single hit. Corwin picked this inning to issue both of his walks, and these passes, combined with an error and an outfield fly brought in a score. The second tally came in the sixth when McFarland singled and went to second on an error. An infield out sent him to third from where he scored on Schwaderer's single.

Epworth made only one serious scoring threat, that in the fifth inning when the bases were clogged before a man was relieved. Schwaderer forced the next three out on easy chances, however, and the uprising failed to produce anything except a lot of excitement for the spectators.

Three other games were played yesterday, none of which exerted any effect on the championship scramble. The Y-Sparans club marked up its first triumph of the season, beating Forest Lawn, 6-5. The victors chased all of their runs across in the first frame. Johnny Belcher, the lead-off man, smacked a home run to start the game and before the third man was retired, six tallies had crossed the plate. That was enough to give the game to the Spartans.

YANKS TROUNCE NATS
TWICE, NOW TRAILING
BY ONLY ONE GAME

Defending Champs Have Chance To Regain Top in This Series.

By The Associated Press

Every time the Yankees skid, a wheel or two in a single with some routine opponent chuckles sweep the base lands and the boys nod wisely at the indubitable signs of an aged hard-boiled machine about to fly apart all at once like the fabled one-horse shay.

Everyone chuckles but the baseball men who have to tackle the Yankees next. It has long been their adage, and it stood truer than ever today, that when the checks are down and the issue is man to man with the title at stake, Babe Ruth and his "doddering" brethren are the grimmest, toughest fovea in all baseball.

Yanks Grab Pair
Perfect as to detail in every point, this very scene was pictured in the Yankee stadium yesterday. The high-riding Senators, three games in the lead, opened a four-game series with a double header. The Athletics had left town only Saturday with three straight victories.

So the Yankees climbed right up out of the resin like a hurt Dempsey. Babe Ruth belted one, Lou Gehrig hit another. The pitchers pitched as they're capable of pitching. The hitters hit, the defense was tight, the Yankees swept both games 6 to 5 and 5 to 4, and the Senators' lead was shaved to a single game.

With two more games left in this series, one today and another tomorrow, it is possible for the Yankees to swing into the final third of the season this week with a one-game lead.

Both the Yanks and the Senators have played 102 of the 134 games on the schedule with 52 to go apiece. After two more here they travel their separate ways until Aug. 13, when they meet again in a single game in Washington.

Nationals Hit
The battle of the Yanks and the Senators overshadowed the major league battlefronts yesterday with action today suspended along the National League front.

The Browns won their first series for Manager Rogers Hornsby shutting out the White Sox 6 to 0. A five-run assault in the fourth gave the Tigers enough runs to beat Cleveland 8 to 3 despite six errors. The home folks gave Hucky Walters, Red Sox third baseman, a chest of silver and a loving cup at Philadelphia, and he in turn gave the Athletics a headache by driving in five runs with a homer and triple as Boston won 8 to 5.

SOFTBALL MOGULS
MEET WEDNESDAY

The starting date for the Little World Series is expected to be officially named Wednesday night at 5 when the city softball commission holds its regular monthly meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

Resides the naming of the starting date, the principal business of the commission will be the hearing of two protests, one in the Commercial league and one in the Industrial league. The K. of P. nine has protested a defeat by the Kappas and Walters & Diabennett has protested a defeat by the Gasco club. No other business of importance is expected to come before the board.

DEMPSEY AND WILLARD MEET AGAIN

When Jack Dempsey and Jess Willard shook hands in Los Angeles the other day, it was the first time they had met since the famous July 4 of 1919 when Dempsey floored the big Kansan to win the heavyweight boxing title. (Associated Press photo).

THE GUMPS

WELL, MOTHER - TWENTY BE LONG NOW TELL ME YOUR DUTIFUL SON - BY THE WAY A GREAT TIME WE THREE ARE GOING TO HAVE ON THAT MONEYSOON TRIP - I'VE GOT IT ALL PLANNED OUT -

OH, COUNT - I CAN'T BEAR TO THINK OF BEING PARTED FROM MULLIE -

DON'T WORRY, MOTHER - THE WAY THINGS ARE GOING RIGHT NOW, WE'LL NEVER HAVE ANOTHER WORRY IN OUR LIVES - AND I MEET ON TAKING CARE OF ALL THE BILLS FOR MULLIE'S TROUSSEAU AND HER WEDDING OUTFIT -

OH, I COULDN'T THINK OF THAT COUNT - BUT YOU WILL TAKE GOOD CARE OF MY LITTLE GIRL ALWAYS, WON'T YOU? SHE'S SO YOUNG - SO HELPLESS -

SHE'LL MAKE THE MOST WONDERFUL WIFE ANY MAN EVER HAD -

AND YOU'LL MAKE THE MOST WONDERFUL MOTHER ANY COUPLE EVER HAD - HOW PROUD YOU AND I WILL BOTH BE WHEN WE TAKE HER ABROAD AND INTRODUCE HER AS THE BEAUTIFUL COUNTESS BESSFORD - I'M BOOKING THE ROYAL SUITE ON THE STEAMER NEXT WEEK - AND TELL ME, CONFIDENTIALLY, DO YOU THINK MULLIE WOULD PREPARE A YACHT OR A FRENCH CHATEAU FOR A WEDDING PRESENT?

HAW! HAW! WHAT A LOOK THAT OLD BATTLE-AXE HAD ON HER FACE WHEN I TALKED ABOUT THE TROUSSEAU AND THE YACHT - I'LL BET THEY HAVEN'T HAD A SQUARE MEAL IN A MONTH - IF I EVER GET HER ALONE ON A BOAT, I'LL TIE A CANNON BALL AROUND HER NECK AND PUSH HER OVERBOARD -

BY SIDNEY SMITH

NOW YOU'LL SEE SOME REAL DETECTIVE IN OUR SEARCH FOR ROSIE ROBOT - WATCH MY SMOKE

YES, I NOTICE

CHERCHER LA FEMME - YOU KNOW WHAT THAT MEANS FIND THE WOMAN - THAT'S MY MOTTO

MAYBE YOU CAN FIND ROSIE

YOU DON'T GET ME - I GOTTA HAVE A GIRL I CAN CONFIDE IN

WOULD I DO?

WELL, I'LL TRY YOU OUT ON THREE BIG SECRETS AND SEE HOW MANY YOU CAN KEEP

BY RUSS WESTOVER

TOOTS AND CASPER

OH, CASPER, I COULD HARDLY WAIT FOR YOU TO GET HOME - TO TELL YOU I'VE DECIDED WHERE WE OUGHT TO SPEND OUR VACATION - EVERYBODY WHO IS ANYBODY IS GOING TO BLA-BY-THE-SEA!

BLA-BY-THE-SEA? SAY - I WOULDN'T SEND A CONVALESCING CAT TO THAT DUMP - I WANT A REST, NOT A HEADACHE - THAT'S THE RALLYING PLACE FOR ALL THE WOULD-BES IN THE COUNTRY - AND I WANT TO CLIMB A FLOCK OF MOUNTAINS

NOW, PLEASE DON'T ACT STUBBORN, CASPER, ALL YOU FIND ON A MOUNTAIN IS ROCKS AND SORE FEET - IF YOU'RE SO FOND OF ROCKS WHY WASTE RAIL ROAD FARE? WHY NOT SPEND A COUPLE OF WEEKS IN OUR LOVELY STONE QUARRY?

MY MIND'S MADE UP - IT'S THE MOUNTAINS OR NOTHING - SHE ALWAYS PICKS THE PLACE WE SPEND OUR VACATIONS, BUT THIS YEAR I'LL MAKE THE DECISION, I HOPE!

BY JIMMY MURPHY

THIMBLE THEATER

WHAT YA DO WHEN HE GETS GAS PAINS ON HIS TUMMY?

AFTER I TOLD HIM OVER EATING - MY SHOULDER LIME

IS THAT SO? SAY, THAT'S THIS VALERIE INFREMATIOM

I LEARNED SUMPIN THEN AN' THAT'S WHY I SET US MOTHERS SHOULD OUGHTER TALK THINGS OVER ONCE IN AWHILE

THAT'S A GOOD JOKE ON ME - US MOTHERS ARE AGE - I BEEN TRYIN' SO HARD TO BE A MAMA TO HIM - I FORGETS I'M A MALE SEX

BY SEGAR

ANNIE ROONEY

HEY - WAIT! - MRS. REEAL AIN'T HOME - ANY YOU CAN'T GO IN THERE!!

-YEAH, MY DOG RAN AWAY - I THOUGHT I SAW HIM COME IN HERE - I GUESS I WAS MISTAKEN - A NICE, COZY PLACE YOU HAVE HERE - I SUPPOSE MRS. REEAL KEEPS HER MONEY BOX LOCKED IN THAT TRUNK?

NO, SHE DON'T KEEP THE MONEY BOX IN THE TRUNK - SHE KEEPS IT IN - WELL, IT'S NONE OF MY BUSINESS WHERE SHE KEEPS IT - BIGGIES, I'M NOT SUPPOSED TO FLAB EVERYTHING I KNOW!

FUNNY, THAT GUY - RUSHIN INTO THE WAGON WHEN MY BACK WAS TURNED - I DON'T KNOW WHY HE WANTED TO FIND OUT WHERE MRS. REEAL KEPT HER MONEY BOX - I'M JUST GONNA SNOOP AROUND AN' FIND OUT IF HE LOST A DOG!

BY DARREL McCLURE

BRINGING UP FATHER

THE NEIGHBORS WILL THINK WE'RE MOVIN' INSTEAD OF JUST GOIN' FOR A TRIP TO THE FAIR -

OH, SHUT UP! YOU ARE ALWAYS GROWLING -

FARM HIT BY $10,000 FIRE

All Buildings on Carl Jones Place Near Kenton Destroyed.

Special to The Star
KENTON, Aug. 8.—Plumes of unknown origin, swept by a strong wind, destroyed the house, barn, granary and three other outbuildings at the Carl Jones farm, four miles west of Kenton, Monday afternoon, causing damage of $10,000 partially covered by insurance.

The fire came in the absence of the Jones family, who had left for a week's vacation at Long Island, Indian Lake, Monday morning.

Neighbors succeeded in saving most of the household furniture but were unable to control the flames, which started in the barn and spread forward until all buildings on the farm were destroyed. Included in the loss were 400 baby chicks, a quantity of hay, 200 bushels of wheat and farm machinery. The Kenton fire department was notified but did not make the run after it was learned that there were no facilities for procuring water.

83 STORES GRANTED COSMETIC LICENSES

All Dealers Must Have Permits By Sept. 1; Expect 100 To Apply.

The quest for beauty is just around the corner for Marion county women and men, too. It can't be more than a stone's throw away, County Auditor Earl E. Thomas figures as he continued to receive applications for cosmetic licenses.

To date 83 licenses have been issued to retail dealers in the county and most of these are in Marion. These range from the cross roads grocery store in the country to the large department stores in Marion with barber shops and drug stores coming in between. All retail stores handling beauty preparations must have licenses by Sept. 1. Tax stamps must be on all cosmetics sold this month. The tax is a part of the emergency legislation enacted for poor and school relief.

The auditor estimated that at least 100 licenses will be issued. They cost $1.

GALION COUPLE WED AT BELLEVUE
Miss Frances Kistler and Louis Schaefer Married.

Special to The Star
GALION, Aug. 8.—The marriage of Miss Frances Kistler of Columbus and Louis Schaefer of this city was solemnized yesterday noon at Bellevue, O., with the Rev. A. A. Ahn, pastor of the Lutheran church, officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sutton of Attica were the only attendants.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kistler of Springfield, O. For several years she has served as a nurse at Grant hospital, Columbus.

Mr. Schaefer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Schaefer of Gallion. He was graduated from Gallion High school and from Ohio State university in 1924. While in college he was affiliated with Sigma Chi, national social fraternity. For several years he has been associated with the Wear Ever Aluminum Co.

They will spend their honeymoon on Gaste peninsula in East Quebec province, Canada.

Announcement is being made here today of the marriage of Miss Ruthella R. Weaver and Elmer R. Goff, both of Gallion.

The marriage took place Saturday night at the home of Rev. John F. Winter here. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Prosper Freeman.

The couple are making their home at 538 Harding Way East. Mrs. Goff is the daughter of Mrs. Edna Hessey of near Gallion. Mr. Goff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Goff of near West Point.

K. A. Polster presided at the meeting of Scarborough post, American Legion, last night in the post rooms. The meeting had been moved ahead one week on account of the department convention to be held at Lima on Aug. 13, 14 and 15. Delegates from the local post are Elmer Kelly, Howard Evans and M. J. Mosbacher. Alternates Roy Atkinson, C. F. Tracht and C. D. Wise.

Mrs. J. Y. Clark of Leesburg, Fla., formerly Miss Dorothy James, was hostess to the King's Daughters class of First Methodist church Monday night at the home of Mrs. Nellie Sutton.

The monthly business meeting of the Good Will club was held Monday night at St. Patrick's social auditorium. Mrs. John Shea presided.

PIGS REPAY CIVIL WAR LOSS

Capt. Thomas Jefferson Davis, aide to the army chief of staff, received two pigs sent by Lieut. John B. Sherman, a grand nephew of Gen. William T. Sherman, in payment for porkers stolen from the Davis estate by the Civil war general's raiders on their march to the sea. Davis promptly named the pigs "Whisky" and "Soda" when they were delivered in a crate to his war department office in Washington. (Associated Press photo).

Mt. Gilead Again Asks Cut in Utilities Rates

Council Seeks Lower Cost of Electricity and Water for Both Domestic and City Consumption.

Special to The Star
MT. GILEAD, Aug. 8.—After several months of inaction, during which unpaid bills for electric service and water service have continued to mount, the council members Monday night decided to make another appeal to the C. D. & M. Electric Co. officials for lower rates, both for domestic consumers and for the city. The C. D. & M. Co. is the parent company of the Mt. Gilead Water, Light, Heat & Power Co.

Councilman H. C. Mozier introduced a motion providing for a conference between the council members and representatives of the company and a conference will be arranged soon, he said.

When financial difficulties led council to suspend payment of these bills their request that the street lighting service here be reduced was refused by the company. No bills for street lighting and water service have been paid since December, 1932, but at the meeting Monday night payment of the street lighting bills up to July 1 was authorized. The amount is approximately $1,000 which will be paid out of the distribution of personal tax receipts. The water bills will remain unpaid.

The street committee was authorized to proceed with the amicable repaving of North Rich street from the school buildings south to North street. The estimated cost is $400 and the work will be started soon. All street maintenance men will work not more than 40 hours a week.

Councilman M. L. Clemm proposed that an appropriation be made to keep an officer at the intersection of Union and North Main streets to curb traffic violations there. Numerous autoists are crashing the red light there, he said. No action was taken.

WHEAT PROGRAM FOR HARDIN CO. PLANNED

Federal Agent To Be in Charge of Work at Kenton for 90 Days.

By International News Service
KENTON, Aug. 8.—Plans for opening of a county wheat allocation office in Kenton this week were laid before Hardin county commissioners and various farm and agricultural leaders here Monday by G. R. Eastwood, government agent and a member of the Ohio State university extension service department.

Under tentative plans this county will not employ a county agent at this time but will accept services of a government representative who will be stationed here 90 days to educate farmers in the allotment plan, receive their contracts for wheat acreage reduction and form the Hardin County Wheat Production Control association.

The contracts, if signed by all Hardin county farmers will mean payment on the allotment of 165,000 bushels on the basis of 20 cents per bushel this fall and 8 cents per bushel next spring.

KENTON GUARDSMAN HURT IN BALL GAME

KENTON, Aug. 8.—John Carter, one of Kenton's national guardsmen now receiving army training at Camp Perry, is recovering from a painful head wound over the right eye received when a fellow Guardsman, Robert Ellis, lost hold of his bat during a recreational baseball game. Carter, struck and rendered unconscious by the blow, was removed to the camp hospital for treatment. Six stitches were required to close the gash.
